Growing American Youth

MCC

5108 Waterman Blvd.

Additional Information:

A youth group organized in 1979 by Al Macabeo, which met at MCC. Early on the groups was known as "Pride" and "Under 21 Group" but by 1980 selected the name "Growing American Youth."

Bill Cordes, owner of Our World Too bookstore and community organizer, was a long-time sponsor of the group. In looking back at the group's history journalist Colin Murphy described the organization as "a safe-haven for our young people [that] continues to produce generations of well-adjusted and productive LGBT community members."
