

PW 73 – Inv 181+221

. . . a voice comes to you speaking. Let the stars be set upon the board (as they are) by nature except for the sun and the moon. And let the sun be golden, the moon silver, Saturn of obsidian, Mars of reddish onyx, Venus lapislazuli with gold flecks, Mercury turquoise; let Juppiter be crystalline; and the horoscope, (as it is) by (nature?) . . . let it lie . . .