Location:

murder of Richard Gaugert

residence of Gaugert

5621 Delmar

Additional Information:

In March 1990, Richard Gaugert, a white man who worked in community outreach for the St. Louis Art Museum and had a popular KWMU public radio program, was found beaten and strangled in his residence. Police reported he was seen before his death with two young African-American men near Ruth Porter Mall. Gaugert was also active with the (by then non-functioning) chapter of Black and White Men Together (BWMT).
